

Loyola College is a school which operates with the consent of the Catholic Archbishop of Melbourne and is owned, operated and governed by Melbourne Archdiocese Catholic Schools Ltd (MACS).

Purpose

This policy ensures that a consistent, evidence-based approach that is in the best interests of students is taken in decisions on whether students repeat or are accelerated a year of study at Loyola College.

Scope

This policy applies to all students in Loyola College who are identified as gifted or are being considered for year-level retention.

Principles

The following principles underpin this policy:

- each student's uniqueness should be celebrated and all students embraced as respected and valued members of the learning community;
- all students are different and that for some students curriculum differentiation may require the repetition of a year of study or the application of acceleration to meet their individual needs
- decisions regarding the year-level retention or acceleration of students should be made in the best interests of each student
- local pastoral discretion is an important element of decision-making with regard to student acceleration.

Policy

All students, including those who are gifted or at risk, are to be provided access to a curriculum that encourages high expectations.

Retention should only be considered in exceptional circumstances where there is strong evidence that it is in the best interests of the student. Students at risk require specific and targeted interventions based on a detailed diagnostic evaluation of their needs. A range of interventions responding to individual learning needs, strengths, talents, and interests should be considered to best meet the needs of each student. A student can only repeat a single year level, e.g., a student that repeats a four-year-old kindergarten year will be deemed to have already been retained.

Acceleration generally occurs on entry into school and across year groups from Foundation to Year 10. Decisions to accelerate a student must be based on the best interests of each student. Consideration should be given to distinctions in individual learning needs, strengths, talents, and interests and to differences in aptitudes across a variety of domains. Decisions to accelerate a student must be based on the best interests of each student.

Acceleration options may include but are not limited to one or a combination of the following:

- year level-based acceleration – for one or more curriculum areas
- subject-based acceleration – differentiation within one or more curriculum areas
- higher education studies in the VCE – offered by a university
- advanced placement (AP) courses – usually offered to a small group/class of students
- compacted curriculum – usually a whole-school decision

- education courses provided by an outside organisation
- mentorship/coaching – usually within school time and subject specific
- multi-year classes – usually two year levels together, allowing students to work at either year level.

Exemptions for year-level student acceleration or retention may be granted in exceptional circumstances to individual students following application from the principal to the MACS office
