Dear Loyola College community,

RE: STEM Construction Building at Loyola College

We are writing to share exciting news regarding the upcoming construction of the STEM Building at Loyola College. We are pleased to announce the construction has received approval, and our builders are currently on-site. Over the coming weeks, we will begin the process of demolition and commence construction.

The safety of our College and Loyola community is important to us. We want to assure you that we are working with fully licensed operators, and all necessary Occupational Health and Safety (OH&S) measures are in place. These precautions are implemented to ensure a secure and successful installation with no impact on the safety of our community and neighbouring properties.

The construction works will be carried out in accordance with the relevant Construction Management Plan (CMP), which has been prepared in collaboration with the Banyule City Council. The Council has endorsed the CMP as part of the Planning/Building Permit process.

We kindly remind everyone that the construction zone, as defined by the internal site and boundary fencing, must not have any unauthorised entry at any time.

As the project progresses, we will keep you informed of any construction matters that may impact you, including significant noise or expected disruptions to the neighbourhood. Regular updates on the project's progress will be available on our website: <https://loyola.vic.edu.au/our-college/upcoming-developments?>
